

Program

ENHR 2018 Workshop 8: Housing and Social Theory

Ekonomikum, Room H432

Wednesday, 27 June 11.15 – 12.45

Workshop Session 1

Introduction to the workshop – Julie Lawson (RMIT University, Australia), David Clapham (University of Reading Business School, UK) and Bo Bengtsson (Uppsala University, Sweden)

Historicising housing typologies: Beyond welfare states and varieties of residential capitalism – Timothy Blackwell (Uppsala University, Sweden)

Housing inequality: A model of sedentary and nomadic understandings of housing – Karin Grundström (Malmö University, Sweden)

How can the city stay together? – Susanne Urban (Uppsala University, Sweden)

Wednesday, 27 June 13.45 – 15.15

Workshop Session 2

The neo-liberal housing regime: Practices and outcomes – David Clapham (Reading University, UK)

A methodological quest for literature mapping as both an output and a pathway to evidence reviews – Adriana Mihaela Soaita (University of Glasgow, UK)

Thursday, 28 June 11.00 – 12.30

Workshop Session 3

Village vs neighborhood: Evaluating rural areas in metropolitan municipalities of Turkey through rural-urban transect – Özge Özkuvancı (Özyeğin University, Turkey)

Friday, 29 June 11.00 – 12.30

Workshop Session 4

Path dependence and change in housing: A theoretical framework and an application to the German and Swedish housing regimes – Bo Bengtsson (Uppsala University, Sweden) and Sebastian Kohl (Uppsala University, Sweden)

My home and my economy – Birgitta Vitestam-Blomqvist (Malmö University, Sweden)

Housing tenure and interpersonal trust in Europe: A longitudinal approach – Hyungjun Suh (University of Arizona, USA)

Friday, 29 June

13.30 – 15.00

Workshop Session 5

How to apply the capability approach to housing policy? Concepts, theories and challenges – Boram Kim (Delft University of Technology, the Netherlands)

Causal mechanisms affecting the output of post-disaster housing in the Philippines: Applying critical realism to housing recovery after Haiyan – Ivette Arroyo (Lund University, Sweden)

Tenure and wellbeing – results from a mixed methods case-study in England's South East and South West – James Gregory (University of Birmingham, UK)

Friday, 29 June

15.30 – 17.00

Workshop Session 6

Housing acquisition as process: An interactionist perspective – Hannu Ruonavaara (University of Turku, Finland)

Bringing elites into housing studies: A sociological approach to the history of land registration and elite housing practices in the UK – Timothy Monteath (London School of Economics, UK)

Housing delivery trajectories: Opportunities and possibilities of knowledge transfer – Tali Hatuka (Tel Aviv University, Israel)